

OGLETHORPE'S RATING IS DEFENDED BY BOARD

Committee Answers Baird, Says Institution Is Only State Inspected College.

Asserting that Oglethorpe university is the only educational institution in Georgia which has been inspected and accredited by the state board of education, the executive committee of Oglethorpe university Monday answered Dr. Noah Baird, member of the Atlanta board of education, who seeks to disqualify Oglethorpe credits until the state department sets up an accrediting system.

Dr. Baird is the author of a resolution bearing the approval of the rules committee of the board of education to defer acceptance of Oglethorpe credits.

Text of the executive committee's answer to Baird follows:

"The Executive Committee of Oglethorpe University desires to make the following comment concerning the statement of Dr. Noah Baird, appearing in yesterday's Constitution and reading as follows:

"I have no antagonism toward Oglethorpe. . . But I do insist that we recognize the credits only after the state department of education has set up permanent machinery to inspect universities and maintain standards. I am opposed to recognizing Oglethorpe or any other institution on the basis of one inspection."

"This statement by Dr. Baird indicates that he is blissfully unaware of the fact that each diploma awarded by Oglethorpe University to each and all teachers is examined and approved by the State department of education before it is awarded to its recipient."

Lightning Bursts Ball, Leaves Holder Unhurt

CHICAGO, June 6.—(P)—John Dorris was playing catch with a beach ball yesterday as he stood in the water of Lake Michigan.

A bolt of lightning, striking nearby, exploded the ball in his hand. He toppled over in the water.

Nobody could find any of the remains of the ball.

and that in as much as Oglethorpe University is the only college or university so far accredited by the State department of education under the new standards, her diplomas are so far the only ones in the state with this legal imprimatur on them.

"If Dr. Baird will take the trouble to inquire of his own alma mater, Emory University, he will be interested in learning that it has never been inspected. He may also be interested in learning how often Emory has been inspected by an 'accrediting association.' He will even find that no 'accrediting association' has ever recognized his alma mater or any other college, except after one inspection. The committee feels that this perpetual harassing of one of the south's best loved and most popular institutions should end. If Oglethorpe University cannot get justice in England she will be compelled to appeal to the courts for protection."

"In the meantime we feel sure that the Atlanta teachers understand the situation perfectly. We commend to Dr. Baird the following excerpt from a letter from Governor Russell, chairman of the state board of education to President Harrelson of the Atlanta board of education:

"The state board of education has fixed standards for the colleges of Georgia and in the case of Oglethorpe University has enforced them, by procuring the services of a recognized expert to make a survey and full investigation of the work being done at Oglethorpe University. The report of the survey discloses that Oglethorpe University is meeting all of the standards prescribed by the state board of education. The state board of education has similar surveys made of the other educational institutions of the state and will from time to time have other inspections made of Oglethorpe University as well as of other educational institutions seeking to qualify under the laws of Georgia, to permanently enforce the standards of the state board of education relating to accrediting the colleges."

"This statement by Dr. Baird indicates that he is blissfully unaware of the fact that each diploma awarded by Oglethorpe University to each and all teachers is examined and approved by the State department of education before it is awarded to its recipient."

'PURPLE HEART' GIVEN TO ATLANTA VETERAN

William R. Waldrep, manager of Jacobs' main store at Five Points, was badly wounded in action at Cantigny, France, when General Pershing's division went into action against the Germans on May 28,

WILLIAM R. WALDREP.

1918. Exactly 14 years later, on May 28 last, the adjutant general at Washington presented the "purple heart" medal to Mr. Waldrep for military merit.

The purple heart medal was originated by George Washington, who presented about 50 of them to distinguished colonial veterans. At the beginning of the Washington bicentennial observance this year the old custom was revived by the war department.

Mr. Waldrep was a lad of 17 when he enlisted in Company F of the 28th infantry, first division, Pershing's own outfit. He was sent to France at once, and after preliminary training went into action with the first individual American force.

He was so badly wounded at Cantigny by bursting shell fragments that he was kept in hospitals for 18 months. Although one of the youngest soldiers in his company he was advanced to the rank of line sergeant.

ARNOLD, ROSE LEAVE FOR CHICAGO BATTLE

James W. Arnold, national committeeman, and Joseph T. Rose, state chairman, of the Georgia G. O. P., left Atlanta Monday for Chicago to be present Thursday when Mamie Williams, negro republican committeewoman, begins her fight to have the national committee oust the administration-recognized white republican party of Georgia.

The faction headed by the Savannah party official will attempt to unseat a part of the delegates who were selected at the state convention. J. G. Lemon, negro lawyer of Savannah, will represent the committeewoman.

Arnold was endorsed for another term as national committeeman by the state convention but there was no reference to re-election of Mamie Williams.

RUSSELL WILL NAME NEW REGENT TODAY

Governor Richard B. Russell Jr. today is expected to name a new member of the board of regents to succeed W. D. Anderson, Macon cotton manufacturer, resigned, and an early meeting of the board is expected to pick a new chairman. Anderson was named chairman when the board organized January 1.

The chief executive announced definitely that the new member would be picked from the alumni of Georgia Tech. The governor explained Monday that he was under the impression that a Tech man was among his original appointees.

ENGLAND AND IRELAND TO HOLD CONFERENCE

Statesmen Will Discuss Tension Between Commonwealth and Dominion.

LONDON, June 6.—(P)—Two British statesmen crossed the Irish channel tonight to begin conversations with President Eamon De Valera, of the Irish Free State, intending to relieve the tension between the commonwealth and the dominion.

The first discussions, which formally were announced to deal with the coming Ottawa imperial trade conference, will be held tomorrow. Informally it was agreed that the vexatious oath and annuities issues would come up.

J. H. Thomas, secretary for dominions, and Lord Hallahan, secretary for war, who will conduct the negotiations, expect to return to England tomorrow night. On Thursday Mr. De Valera will start for London to resume the discussions.

The English negotiators went to Ireland at the invitation of the Free State.

Parliamentary circles in London tonight declared the whole range of Anglo-Irish relations would be discussed.

The governor took no action, however, on the clemency plea of John Dawson, convicted with the Brown woman for the slaying of Eli Huston. Ordinarily when the governor does not intend to commute a death sentence he permits the clemency plea to go unanswered.

The commutation, the governor explained, was granted because of lack of proof that the woman's part in the murder justified the death sentence. She is the mother of a 6-year-old child.

$150,000 GIFT RECEIVED BY UNIV. OF FLORIDA

GAINESVILLE, Fla., June 6.—(P)—The largest single gift in the history of the University of Florida—$150,000 from the general education board—was announced today by Dr. John J. Tigert, president, at the commencement exercises.

The gift, matched by state appropriation by the 1932 legislature, will be used for erection of a demonstration school and college of education building.

Silence Veils Fate Of Atlantic Airman

NEW YORK, June 6.—(P)—The 83d hour since Stanislaus Felix Hausner, 31-year-old Polish-American flyer, took off from Floyd Bennett field on a projected nonstop flight to "London or Paris and Warsaw," passed tonight without a hint as to his fate.

Mrs. Martha Hausner, his attractive bride of a year, lost some of the optimism she maintained after the 52-hour limit at which his gasoline supply would last had passed.

Her brother, Walter Vages, of Jersey City, said she still had hope her husband lived, believing he may have brought his red monoplane down on the wastes of Ireland some time Saturday and been unable as yet to communicate his whereabouts.

Hausner took off at 8:46 a. m. (eastern standard time) Friday and was never definitely reported after that, although a plane believed to have been his passed over Sydney, Nova Scotia, early that evening.

ROOSEVELT COMMUTES SENTENCE OF NEGRESS

ALBANY, N. Y., June 6.—(P)—A young negro woman was saved from the electric chair today by last-minute action by Governor Roosevelt. The executive commuted to life imprisonment the sentence of Ruth Brown, 24, who was to have died Thursday night for a murder in a New York beer flat.

The governor took no action, however, on the clemency plea of John Dawson, convicted with the Brown woman for the slaying of Eli Huston. Ordinarily when the governor does not intend to commute a death sentence he permits the clemency plea to go unanswered.

The commutation, the governor explained, was granted because of lack of proof that the woman's part in the murder justified the death sentence. She is the mother of a 6-year-old child.

Associate Also Resigns Post on Board of International Mercantile Marine Co.

NEW YORK, June 6.—(P)—The storm-tossed seas through which the late J. Pierpont Morgan ploughed his way in his determined effort to create a worldwide shipping combine were recalled today in the announcement of the resignation of J. P. Morgan, son of J. Pierpont, from the board of directors of the International Mercantile Marine Company.

Charles Steele, a partner of Mr. Morgan in the banking firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., also resigned from the marine company's board. The succinct announcement from the company's office merely stated that the two bankers were being succeeded by Howard Bruce and John M. Perry, both of Baltimore, Md.

Elsewhere it was stated that no special significance attached to the joint resignations beyond the desire of both bankers to lighten up on routine work. Neither has been active in the International Mercantile Marine Company for sometime.

The resignation marks the first time since 1893 that the House of Morgan has not been represented directly on the shipping company's board.

In 1893, when J. Pierpont Morgan set out to create his world shipping combine, he aroused bitter resentment and active hostility in England and Germany. Kaiser Wilhelm sat in on German shipping meetings at which steps were taken for the purpose of blocking the threat of American capital to dominate the Atlantic. The British government threw its resources against Morgan in an effort to thwart his plan.

HUTCHESON URGES SLASH IN DEKALB

Judge's Charge Recommends Salary Cuts, Asks Speedier Court Business

Charging the June DeKalb county grand jury Monday morning, Judge John R. Hutcherson, of the Stone Mountain circuit, urged that it recommend a cut in the expenses of government, particularly salaries, and asked members of the bar to co-operate in the expediting of court business.

"We take too much time to try cases," Judge Hutcherson said. "The courts are an impediment to the progress of the state and the country. It takes too long and there are too many frivolities in the introduction of testimony but the court has to hear it. Too long a time is taken up in the examination of witnesses. It takes too long to strike a jury and the court is going to ask the bar to co-operate with it to expedite business in the trial of cases as rapidly as it can and not do any injustice."

Georgia makes too many appropriations, Judge Hutcherson told the grand jury, and the next session ought to reduce all of them except maintenance appropriations to elementary institutions.

"I believe," he said, "that there should be a cut in the expenses of our government—national, state and municipal. Of course, we must levy enough taxes to pay our debts. We will do that, but we can and should do something to reduce the taxes as they are now. They are higher in this country than they ever were. At the same time, this country is in a more dire condition than we were in 1860. You all know—if you don't know, it is true, that there are people all over Georgia that are not getting enough to eat. Some of us are not complaining, but there is no work for many, no employment, no chance to make a bare living."

"In the commercial world there has been a reduction of help and a cut in wages. There should be a cut of salaries in the officeholders of Georgia, county state and municipal. I know that some of them have not received as much as they ought to have, but every man should be patriotic enough to take his share and bear his part of the burden of running this government. It can only be done by law. A great many salaries are fixed by statute and some are fixed by the constitution and the people will have no chance to make that change until 1934 unless something is done along that line before November of the present year—in other words, a change of the constitution."

"Salaries of public officers ought to be flexible. I don't mean they ought to be changed every time the price of wheat changes, but when there is a slump like there is now in our economic situation, they ought to be changed. Possibly the time will come and I hope that it will, when it will be possible to have them raised, but we cannot regulate them except through our law-making powers and any reduction of government expense should be handled that way."

Members of the grand jury are J. L. McCord, foreman; M. C. Fowler, C. R. Roberts, C. C. Singleton, F. H. Roberts, W. C. Gorman, R. T. Harrison, C. M. Carroll, W. R. Nash, J. T. Nash, J. O. Knight, H. Britain, Italy Criticized For U. S. Debt Paying

PARIS, June 7.—(Tuesday)—(AP) The newspaper Ere Nouvelle, organ of Premier Edouard Herriot, today criticized what it called the precipitate resumption of debt payments to the United States by Great Britain and Italy.

(The Italian and British governments have agreed to accept a proposal of President Hoover allowing repayment to the United States with 10 years of debt payments deferred by the moratorium ending June 30.)

"The Hoover moratorium suspended simultaneously the payment of debts and repayments," Ere Nouvelle said. "That implies not only that all payments should be resumed at the same time, but that the reimbursement of all sums benefiting by the moratorium should be regulated by a general agreement."

"Acting otherwise, one plays the American game, which always has been to refuse to admit the necessary liaison between all intergovernmental debts, and thereby the task of the Lausanne negotiators is peculiarly complicated."

"Do Italy and Great Britain want that?"

ALUMNI OF EMORY HEAR DR. MALONE

Annual Exercises Held in Glenn Church; President Holds Reception.

Five hundred Emory University alumni mingled Monday with seniors and faculty members in the annual "alumni day" exercises and heard an address in which they were urged to make their alma mater a university "where a few things are done supremely well, rather than where the tendency toward multiplicity of courses and departments is followed." The alumni day orally Dr. Kemp Malone, who is professor of English philology at Johns Hopkins University and also the editor of American Speech, commended Emory for its emphasis upon high scholarship and declared that the university should lead the way to needed reforms in higher education.

Reforms which he advocated most emphatically were that examinations of students should be conducted by some external examining body, rather than by the professor who taught the course; that faculty members should be allowed to teach only those courses in which they were really interested and that no professor should be required to spend more than five hours a week in actual classroom teaching, but should be given the remainder of his time free for study and research.

"The true greatness of an educational institution is measured by the greatness of its faculty," Dr. Malone reminded the alumni, pointing out instances where institutions had become famous throughout the world because of one man on the faculty.

Dr. Malone spoke at the annual meeting of the Emory University Alumni Association, which the Emory Alumni Day exercises were opened at 11 o'clock Monday morning in the Glenn Memorial auditorium. Other events of the day included a luncheon, swimming and other athletic events, and the president's annual reception to the alumni and graduating class.

The two oldest alumni to return to the campus for the exercises were Dr. Charles O. Jones, of Atlanta, and the Rev. W. R. Branham, of Covington, both of whom are members of the class of 1889. The class of 1907, of

Boy Swimmer Shot By Deputy on Raid

Huntsville, Ala., June 6.—(AP) Homer Parker, 18, was in a critical condition today from a bullet wound in the head inflicted by a deputy sheriff during a raid on a moonshine still near Whitesburg yesterday.

The bullet reported to have been fired by Deputy Will McMinn, of Clouds Cove, entered the youth's head behind the left ear, causing paralysis of his left side. He was not expected to live.

The boy's mother, Mrs. J. N. Parker, said her son plunged into the Tennessee river for an early morning swim and had climbed out on the bank near an abandoned still when he was shot. She said he was permitted to lie on the river bank several hours before being taken to a physician.

Two men with Parker were not arrested. No charge had been placed against McMinn today.

ARCHITECTS AID DRIVE FOR NEW AUDITORIUM

Co-operation of the Georgia chapter of the American Institute of Architects with the city committee planning municipal improvements was offered A. Ben Eyck Brown, well-known architect and chairman of the committee, Monday afternoon in a resolution passed at the monthly meeting of the chapter at the Piedmont hotel. Action of the chapter was announced by Harold Bush-Brown, president.

Mr. Bush-Brown said the chapter would co-operate in every way with Mr. Brown's work in planning new city buildings and traffic arteries. Special emphasis was laid on the need of a new city auditorium at the meeting.

Several plans for a new auditorium were submitted to the Georgia chapter by the seniors of the architectural school of Georgia Tech. Supervised by Olivier Vinour, well-known Atlanta architect, and L. L. Hunter, of Georgia Tech, the members of the Tech graduating class prepared the blue prints as a part of their class work.

A letter to Mr. Brown, who was recently appointed to head the committee, said that a committee had been named by the chapter to aid in the working out of a plan. W. J. Sayward, of the firm of Edwards & Sayward, is its chairman. Members of the chapter will draw up plans for various city improvements, including the proposed new auditorium, which will be turned over to Mr. Brown, it was said, if the city decides to accept the chapter's services.

which Walter Candler is permanent president, led in attendance with more than 30 members present.

Canvass of the ballots for an alumni trustee of the university disclosed that Dr. Howard W. Odum, of Chapel Hill, N. C., had been elected to succeed George R. Gibbons in the trusteeship. Dr. Odum, who was formerly dean of Emory College, is now director of the school of social welfare at the University of North Carolina. He is widely known as an author and an authority in the field of sociology.

Dr. Odum was elected to the Emory board of trustees for a period of three years, there being three alumni trustees, the term of one expiring each year.

Dr. Allen H. Bunce, prominent Atlanta physician, is president of Emory Alumni Association here.

The final event in Emory's 92nd commencement program will be the graduation exercises, which will be held at 10:30 o'clock this morning in the Glenn Memorial auditorium. Dr. Daniel L. Marsh, president of Boston University, will deliver the baccalaureate address to the 273 seniors.

TAX AMENDMENT FOUGHT IN COUNCIL

Berman, Beck Seek Association of Mayors To Oppose Proposal.

Seeking an organization which would be enabled to render concerted opposition to the proposed constitutional amendment voted by the last session of the legislature concerning the levy by the state of a tax on intangibles, Councilmen Joe Berman and J. Frank Beck Monday afternoon introduced a resolution in council calling for a meeting of Georgia mayors to be held in Atlanta with a view to forming such an organization.

Pointing out that the general assembly's action menaces the right of municipalities to assess a levy on intangible property, the resolution warns that if the amendment is favorably voted upon in November "it will reduce the income of every city in the state of Georgia and . . . of the cities would thus be deprived of part of the revenue which they are now receiving."

More Than 100 Georgia Clubs Represented at Two-Day Sessions

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 6.—(AP)—Lions clubs of Georgia began their annual state convention here Monday with an attendance beyond the 100 mark and will conclude the convention Tuesday night.

Elections of officers, selection of the next convention city and reports of a large number of committees, will occupy the business session Tuesday, which will last all day. The concluding banquet and dance at Hotel de Soto will be held Tuesday night.

Monday afternoon the convention adjourned its meeting at Hotel Savannah and went to Savannah Beach for an afternoon of sports at the seashore. They attended a dance Monday night.

Monday morning's business session was devoted chiefly to addresses, including that of the district governor, G. B. King, of Savannah, who reported on the progress of the civic clubs of Georgia during the last year.

Other addresses, besides a welcoming address by Mayor Haynes, included those of W. T. Ray, Athens, and the Rev. G. L. King, of Rome. Reports of deputy governors were received.

The convention this year is interested in the proposal of the clubs from LaGrange and Columbus that the present convention ask the international convention, to be held in Los Angeles, to include National Cotton Week among their major objectives next year. Action is expected to be taken on this Tuesday.

Old Forms of Economic Organization Scored By Dr. F. B. Robinson in Address at Athens

America Failed To Take Advantage of Position After World War, Says Commencement Speaker

ATHENS, Ga., June 6.—(AP)—Failure to change the "old forms of economic organization," says Dr. Frederick B. Robinson, have prevented and still prevent people from "reaping the full benefits of the great advances made possible by scientific inventions and modern methods of industrial and commercial operation."

Dr. Robinson, who is president of the College of the City of New York, spoke here today at the commencement exercises at the University of Georgia.

He said the World War, far from causing poverty and distress in the midst of plenty, actually postponed the economic depression, and "by the accident of its European scope, placed America in the position of proposed leadership—a favorable position of advantage which it failed to use effectively when hostilities ceased."

The war, he said, "rid the world of the oppression of the Romanoffs, the Hohenzollerns and the Hapsburgs and conferred sovereignty upon the peoples who had been held in subjection by monarchs and a privileged nobility."

"But neither the newly established commonwealths, nor the liberal, constitutional governments like England and Holland, nor even the republics like the United States and France," he said, "have changed their economic organization to best advantage."

The commencement exercises today brought the regular session of the university to a close. Degrees were conferred on approximately 400 students. Reese Coleman, of Dublin, delivered the valedictory.

President Robinson said "those in power in each country have been either too selfish or too bewildered to balance the great forces they control so as to bring about a reasonable degree of prosperity at home and reciprocal helpfulness in relation to other nations. They have continued programs which have had the effect of conducting internal affairs for the benefit of small groups and of shaping foreign policies calculated to secure national advantages at the expense of other peoples."

Mr. Robinson suggested that the federal authorities call a conference of industrial leaders, supreme court justices, disinterested economists, members of the cabinet, members of the federal reserve board and officers of the American Federation of Labor.

"This commission," he said, "should be requested to prepare statutes for presentation to congress which would clearly define fields of activity that should be (a) operated by the government; (b) operated by private

U. S. SUIT IS WON AGAINST GEORGIAN

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(AP)—The government today won a case in a law court growing out of the sale of excess lumber at army camps at the close of the World War. The U. S. court in New York City ruled that it was more than $1,500,000, including interest.

The District of Columbia court of appeals upheld a lower court decision granting a judgment in favor of the government against John L. Phillips, Thomasville, Ga.; heirs of George M. Chambers, Maplewood, N. J.; and the Fidelity & Deposit Company, Maryland.

Phillips and John Stephens, Jacksonville, Fla., were appointed agents to sell the lumber. The lower court had relieved Stephens from liability, but the appellate court reversed this finding and held him jointly responsible in alleged fraudulent operation of the contract.

ATLANTA, GA., JUNE 7, 1932.

AN "EYE OPENER"

No primary held this year has been more significant in revealing the trend of opinion in the prohibition situation than the senatorial contest in North Carolina.

North Carolina is supposed to be the driest state in the south and yet Reynolds, the candidate who made the repeal of the eighteenth amendment the direct issue, received a large, if not a decisive, plurality. Practically complete reversal gives Reynolds a lead over Senator Morrison, dry leader, of more than eight thousand votes.

In this connection it is interesting to recall that in the Literary Digest prohibition poll North Carolina was one of only two states in the Union to give a dry majority, Kansas being the other, and both voting against repeal by a narrow margin.

As governor, Morrison gave North Carolina an able and outstanding administration. He was considered the strongest man in the state and his promotion to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Overman was universally approved.

He has always been an extreme prohibitionist. On entering the senate he became one of the most vigorous antagonists of the suggestion that the eighteenth amendment be either repealed or modified.

The result of the primary is significant in its revelation of the present status of prohibition sentiment in the rural districts.

The primary took place on Saturday and by midnight the returns from the cities were first reported, while those from the country were in most instances still to be heard from. At that time Morrison was leading Reynolds but when the results from the country counties began to come in the lead soon switched.

One of the arguments against the accuracy of the Literary Digest poll was that its ballots were sent largely to the cities and that the result of the poll did not correctly reflect the sentiment of the country communities. This was disproved by the Digest, but the impartiality of its poll was still questioned on this ground by extreme prohibitionists.

Now the rural and small community voters of North Carolina have settled the controversy, not only vindicating the impartiality of the poll, but proving conclusively that in so far as North Carolina is concerned, it leaned toward the prohibitionists.

The truth is, the country people as well as those in the cities are beginning to realize that the only quick and certain relief to be obtained from federal taxes, mounting to unprecedented proportions, is through the taxing of the untaxed and unregulated liquor traffic now amounting to around $3,000,000,000 a year. They are waking up to the fact that if this huge "business" is put under proper control not only will the cause of real temperance be forwarded, but crime will be reduced, and relief will be secured by the overburdened taxpayers from the unprecedented burden of federal taxation to which they are now subjected.

Whatever may be the outcome of the run-off primary, the result of the first will open the eyes of the politicians who have evaded, twisted and squirmed on the question of prohibition.

Both the house and the senate voted approval of the tax bill in record order—which is far more than the people are calculated to do.

In two years while Los Angeles had snow in March and now the northern part of the state has had an earthquake.

NO "MONKEY BUSINESS"

Should Senator Thomas Walsh be substituted at the last moment for Jovett Shouse as permanent chairman of the democratic national convention the "stop-Roosevelt" forces, by whom his name was presented at the recent Chicago conference, would have nobody to blame but themselves.

The activity of Mr. Shouse in appearing in several states just prior to their state conventions in advocacy of untrained delegations to the Chicago convention has put him, whether justly or not, in the attitude of being lined up with the "stop-Roosevelt" forces.

Governor Roosevelt will go to the convention with an overwhelming majority of the votes. His supporters will not put up with any "monkey business" from machine malcontents and political manipulators seeking to overthrow the will of the party by fair means, if possible, but not being averse to resorting to foul if necessary to accomplish their purpose.

The two-thirds rule is not sacred. It was adopted exactly 100 years ago and there is no better time to do away with it than with the completion of its centennial.

It was adopted by a national convention and if one convention had the right to put it into effect another one has the right to abrogate it.

The Georgia delegation to the Chicago convention has been instructed by the unanimous vote of the state convention to advocate the abrogation of this archaic rule. Other states have followed and popular sentiment will overwhelmingly endorse the action of the national convention if it substitutes the majority for the two-thirds rule.

If the political manipulators, inspired by certain selfish Wall Street interests, show their claws in the effort to defeat Roosevelt, it is a foregone conclusion that the convention will take this action. The controlling majority of Roosevelt-instructed delegates will be in no mood to support manipulation by the machine-controlled politicians of a few big cities, and they will not hesitate to exert their power if it becomes necessary to do so.

PRESIDENT-MARION SMITH.

In electing Marion Smith, of Atlanta, as president, the Georgia Bar Association bestowed a well-deserved honor on a member of the legal profession well qualified to follow in the footsteps of the outstanding men who have held the position in the past.

Mr. Smith's profound knowledge of the law, his professional standing and his fine character have won for him widespread respect and confidence. Devoting himself studiously and wholeheartedly to his profession he is universally recognized as being one of the leaders of the state bar.

His incisive logic, power of argument and persuasive pleading have made the settlement of many difficult cases more easy of accomplishment, thus lightening the duties of judges and juries and contributing materially to the speeding up of decisions.

His thoughtful and studious contributions to various national law publications have been noted for the same fundamental and basic soundness which has featured his practice of the law.

Entering the law office of his father, the late Senator Hoke Smith, upon his graduation, he has proved himself a worthy scion of a distinguished forbear.

The bar association is to be congratulated in having honored a man whose career reflects credit on his profession, and who, aside from his standing at the bar, has rendered valuable service to city and state in his public activities.

AND NOW ROCKEFELLER.

The announcement by John D. Rockefeller Jr. in a letter to Nicholas Murray Butler, that he favors repeal of the eighteenth amendment is more than merely another defection from the ranks of the extreme prohibitionists who have so far been able to block every proposal to repeal the amendment or to amend it as to make it possible of enforcement.

The Rockefeller millions have been liberally tapped in the fight both to secure the amendment and to keep it on the statute books of the nation. For years this has been a source of support of the Anti-Saloon League.

Thus when John D. Rockefeller Jr. joins Congresswoman Ruth Bryan Owen, daughter of William Jennings Bryan, and the other former extreme dries who have in recent years changed their stand on prohibition, it is significant that the whole country is being awakened to the folly of the present situation.

The Shouse ultimatum should be the final puncture for the anti-Roosevelt half-brother boom.

Both the house and the senate voted approval of the tax bill in record order—which is far more than the people are calculated to do.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Cailloux on Reparations.

In reviewing Mr. Lloyd George's recent book on reparations, M. Cailloux, France's financial wizard, says that in 1919 Mr. Lloyd George made the same mistakes as all his other partners. He believed Lord Lister and all those other "experts" who said that Germany would pay reparations for many long years to come. Why did he ignore in 1919 and in 1920 Mr. Keynes and myself when we raised the alarm and said that the creditor nations would be quite unable to get all those payments out of Germany without upsetting the economic equilibrium of the world? asks Cailloux.

M. Cailloux's article is particularly important as an open admission—by one of the leaders of the radical party that reparations are dangerous and economically unsound. M. Cailloux, however, is the only first-rate financial expert in the radical party, and his arguments may be of value to convince M. Herriot, who still prides himself on having established the Dawes plan, which brought $25 million francs into the French treasury.

One of M. Herriot's favorite arguments against M. Tardieu is that, compared with the "rational" Dawes plan, the young plan, which had been set up under M. Tardieu's auspices, proved a complete failure.

Changed France.

If you tell a Frenchman that he doesn't know the meaning of the word "unemployment" he shakes his head gloomily and assures you that all the figures have not been revealed, and that in any case things are growing worse in France. Only yesterday a dressmaker was fined for employing a Danish mannequin, and her protests that she could not find the right kind of figure to non-sympathetic French clothes met with no sympathy at all.

The problem of the foreign worker looked after very carefully. France has hitherto been even in need of foreign labor, and even so there are now a good many applicants for any domestic posts, and the Jews have been reduced to all sides. Actually, one gets the impression that the English duties have shaken the French morally almost as much as materially. There is much less truculence concerning them, and the French are feeling themselves less as spiritual defenders than martyrs whose sorrows should be shared by the whole world, and it is as natural for them to assume the one attitude as the other.

Be that as it may, the French have the very great advantage of being independent units within the country who are the least affected by the financial problem. In spite of this they are probably right in thinking that the pressure on the industrial life of France would produce a situation disproportionately serious when compared with the troubles of other nations.

Georgia Heroes of the World War

By Sergeant L. E. Jaekel
(All Rights Reserved.)

GROVER CLEVELAND O'KELEY, sergeant, 30th company, sixth regiment, United States marine corps, second division, Marine Corps Reserve Force, awarded the Navy Cross for exemplary heroism in action with the enemy in the Bois-de-Belleau, France, June 6 to 8, 1918.

In the attack upon the enemy machine gun positions in the woods, Sergeant O'Kellely, with his platoon, took great courage. During the advance the assault section came under cross fire of enemy machine guns and all were killed or wounded.

Sergeant O'Kellely throughout the period of intense fighting showed utter disregard of self and was constantly urging his men to follow him in his endeavors, contributing materially toward the successes of the day's advance.

THE SMITH INDIAN CATARACT OPERATION.

Colonel Henry Smith, famous ophthalmic surgeon, has performed 35,000 cataract operations on his patients in India up to the beginning of the World War. He has taught his method to hundreds of the world's leading surgeons, who attend his clinic to learn the technique of his method. Here and there a progressive specialist in this country follows the Smith method in operating on cataract, but the majority of oculists still use the older method.

In the old standard operation for cataract the usual practice has been to wait for complete "ripening" of the cataract, which means complete opacity of the lens and almost helpless blindness, and then to extract the lens usually in two operations.

In the Smith operation it is not necessary to wait for "ripening"—the most successful results are obtained when the operation is done early, just as soon as the patient is unable to read his newspaper or do other close work. Incidentally the patient is in better general condition when the operation is done early.

Moreover the Smith method is comparatively simple and is complete in one sitting.

One of the leading exponents of the Smith Indian cataract operation in this country is Dr. W. A. Fisher, of Chicago. Dr. Fisher, Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat College, who makes his students do the operation on eyes from slaughtered animals. He remarked that as soon as he had operated on thousands of slaves to qualify as a barber, a man contemplating such an operation as cataract excision should first try a few shaves to see how he gets on.

In 1913 Dr. Fisher performed 575 intracapsular cataract operations in Smith's clinic in India, with only one pus infection. He says that there is less chance of pus infection complicating the operation in this country because eyes are surgically cleaner.

Cataract is probably less prevalent now than it was formerly in America per thousand population. Better lighting of work, better care of the eyes and better fitting of glasses, and perhaps better food and better care of general health are the reasons for this. In India cataract is exceedingly prevalent, probably for the lack of all these advantages. If there is any special cause operating there here, the ophthalmologists do not tell us what it is.

San Francisco eye surgeons (Drs. A. S. and L. D. Green) find that patients have better vision after the Smith operation than they do after the ordinary operation and conclude that this is the ideal method for the removal of cataract.

The Butcher Can Buy No Bread If The Baker Will Buy No Meat

By Robert Quillen

For many years America enjoyed an unnatural advantage. With a monopoly of cotton, a great surplus of wheat, vast resources of metal and timber, and the Yankee knack of making gadgets, she was able to sell the world more than she bought in gold.

The difference was paid in gold. It was a great gift while it lasted. America's goods were admitted to all lands. A high import tax, now called a tariff wall, kept foreign goods out of America. At the end of every year the "balance of trade" favored America, and other lands squandered accounts by sending over some more gold.

But it couldn't last. The supply of gold gave out. After the war, America tried to keep the process going by lending other nations the money to pay their bills. That scheme failed, too. You can't get rich by lending a customer more money when he goes broke.

Then the world happened. The other nations put up a tariff wall of their own. They kept out American goods. And now America's foreign trade is about gone and two million workers who depended on it for their living are jobless.

What is more, and worse, that foreign trade is gone forever unless something is done.

What can be done? Well, under normal conditions all international trade is a matter of swapping. There is no world money. America can sell no more than it buys. America can sell England a billion dollars' worth of goods only by buying a billion dollars' worth of English goods.

Where, then, is the advantage and profit of foreign trade? If America sells England a million pair of shoes and England sells America a million pair of shoes, each country provides jobs for the other's workers and nothing is accomplished. It is like swapping dollars.

But it need not work that way. Each land has something the other needs. Each can import something its own workers don't make. That is the solution. It won't interfere with "most favored nation" treaties, for all nations can be treated alike in principle. Let America, agree to admit, duty free, the peculiar products of other lands, and let each of them admit, duty free, a like value of American goods—dollar for dollar even though it fail to sell its own goods.

All must have foreign trade in order to prosper. Why cut their own throats to spite one another?

COUNTY EMPLOYEES GET MAY SALARIES

Walter B. Stewart Answers Critics Who 'Failed To Back Tax Hike.'

County employees outside of the public works department will draw their May salary checks this morning in the county treasurer's office following sanction by local bankers Monday morning of the newly-balanced 1932 county operations budget.

The public works department salaries were paid Monday afternoon from cash on hand in the treasury. Sixty thousand dollars comprises this pay roll for May while the remaining $120,000 of the monthly pay roll is to be honored by the banks in salary warrants this morning.

The county balanced its budget last week when the bankers refused to honor May salary warrants. This was done by lopping off $428,000 in expenditures, giving all employees a 15-day vacation without pay, letting 70 employees go and reducing appropriations to charity by 25 to 33 per cent.

The charity cuts aroused a storm of protest from many quarters, but the clearing house committee, headed by Ronald Hanson representing the banks, met with Commissioners George F. Longino and Walter Hendrix in the directors' room of the National bank and accepted the budget without comment.

In reply to criticism of the board for cutting appropriations to charity, Commissioner Walter B. Stewart, who made the original motion on February 9 of this year to give Grady hospital $100,000, the emergency relief committee $150,000 and Battle Hill sanatorium $25,000, issued a statement Monday.

The minutes of the February meeting show that Mr. Stewart moved that a further cut of 10 cents on $100 be levied to cover these appropriations when taxes for 1932 were to be levied. He charged that the relief agencies knew this and promised to support such a measure with the public but have failed to do so.

His statement follows: "As one of those who voted for the special appropriations to the emergency relief, Grady hospital and Battle Hill I wish to say I have no apologies to make for my action. Nor have I any to make for voting for a curtailment of the charity donations after the gentlemen composing the committee representing the above institutions failed to live up to their agreement to support a special levy for that purpose."

"Insofar as normal operations of the county are concerned the commissioners have put into effect salary reductions and other economies that will mean a saving to the taxpayers of this county this year of $405,000, and, if, as expected, the assessments fall below the amount now set up in the budget the saving will amount to $472,500, which is the equivalent to 2.5 mills or 25 per cent less than the amount paid the county in 1931."

"When the special appropriation for charities was made we knew then as we know now that it was absolutely impossible to pay it from current revenue and the gentlemen composing the committee knew this but pleaded the emergency was such that failure of the county to put its machinery in motion to relieve the situation would cause dire results in this community. The city was out of funds and could not help, they claimed. The county had the machinery and the banks were willing to carry county warrants for this purpose. Their plea was so strong and the members of the committee so well known that three members of the commission were persuaded, as stated by one member of the committee, 'The end justified the means' and voted the money."

"Since that time falling off of revenue and the necessity of balancing the budget has caused the board to make drastic cuts in salaries and other operations and, if we stay in the budget with constantly falling revenues other cuts and economies will have to be put into effect, a contingency we are forced to anticipate."

"It is, therefore, manifestly unfair to force this appropriation into the budget when it was distinctly understood at the time it was made it would be considered as an emergency; that it was a public matter and would be so handled with the assistance of members of the committee, just as it is unfair to say to the employees of the county they shall have to absorb it, because it was a public necessity. It is right they should shoulder the burden of operations and there are none but are willing to do this, and they are entitled to the proper consideration in dealing with the situation."

ENGINEERS URGED TO AID IN CUTTING GOVERNMENT COST

Urging engineers of Atlanta and Georgia to take a more active part in city, state and national government, James A. Perry, chairman of the state public service commission, addressed a joint luncheon meeting of the Atlanta chapters of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and the American Society of Mechanical Engineers Monday in the Henry Grady hotel. Mr. Perry cited the rapidly mounting cost of government in Georgia, which, he said, had increased from $5,000,000 a year to $34,000,000 a year in the past 30 years, as a problem for the employment of men with scientifically trained minds.

Regulation of public utility companies, Mr. Perry said, in place of unregulated competition with duplication of services for which the public bore the expense, had resulted in a great saving to the people of Georgia. Members of the Fanchon and Marco revue at the Fox theater put on an entertaining musical comedy, "The Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, presided."

COMMISSION MAY FACE FULTON VOTERS AGAIN

Committee Recommends That Members Selected in March Be Ratified.

If a report of a special committee of three is approved by the rules committee of the democratic state executive committee, it will be necessary for the members of the Fulton county commission, selected in the March primary, to be ratified by the September 14 primary.

The report, which reiterated a former ruling that future commissions must be chosen in the statewide primary, was signed by William Garrett, Waycross; Charles J. Bloch, Macon; and John C. Beasley, Glenview. It was transmitted to State Chairman Lawrence Camp and will be forwarded today to the other six members of the rules committee.

Irregularity in holding the election in March was called to the committee's attention by Brown Tyler, representing Hapeville citizens. George L. Bell, secretary of the county committee, in a conference with the special committee, said Fulton would comply with the state body's rules. He explained that the county commission was not aware of the new ruling which applies to 1932.

Radio Description By Aerial Raider Arouses London

LONDON, June 6.—(P)—A controversy which may have an echo in the house of commons arose today over the inclusion in Saturday night's British Broadcasting Corporation program of a description of war-time Zeppelin raids on London by the former German commander who led them.

Kapitan-Lieutenant De Joachim Breithaupt, whose raids won him the iron cross, told vividly how and where bombs from his ship landed on the metropolitan area.

The Sunday Express said the "Gallant Commander" dropped 30 bombs on London during October, 1913, killing 39 persons and injuring 87. Relatives of those killed in the raids, the newspaper added, listened to the broadcast with acute mental agony. Protests appeared in several newspapers.

One of a group of bills growing out of the Lindbergh kidnapping case, it is designed to enable states to cope with modern transportation means now at the call of criminals.

THE OFFICERS of the BANKWANT TO MEET YOU

"THESE are the officers quarters" they told me, the "Man-on-the-Street," as they showed me around the bank.

"This is particularly interesting," I said. "Whenever I go into the average business office, I find the officers behind closed doors, and the more important the individual, the more doors I must pass through. Tell me, why are you men all out here in the open, with name plates on your desks—directly contrary to the general arrangement?"

"We want to meet the people," they told me—"We want to be where any man or woman can come directly to us without red-tape or difficulty of any kind. We are at our desks from the time the bank opens until it closes for the sole purpose of meeting folks, talking over their problems with them and helping if we possibly can."

We are not satisfied merely to have people put their money in the bank. We want to know them—we want them to use all the services of the bank and unless we get acquainted, it is difficult for us to know just how we can help."

And I used to think that bankers were "High-Hat."

Crackers Open Night Baseball Season With Nashville Tonight

GOSS AND MILLER QUALIFY HERE FOR OPEN

BREAK of the DAY

By Ralph McGill

East Lake Club was the center of golf interest Monday afternoon. Eddie Miller and Danny Goss, Alabama professionals, from Gadsden and Birmingham, respectively, were leading the way in the national open qualifying.

That was on No. 2 course. And over on the old No. 1 course there was quite a story. Or so it seemed to me.

Bobby Jones, who from 1923 to 1930 was champion of the United States in either the open or amateur, and sometimes both, came out for a round of golf. It was a bit incongruous to find probably the greatest golfer in the world out for a friendly round of golf with the national trials on just a quarter of a mile away on another course.

But there he was. It was the answer to his statement when he retired. Golf, henceforth, was to be fun. I took a look at him as he came out. He looks better than ever. There is no hint of age about him. He has just quit tournament golf.

Jones was paired in his match with Marshall Pollock, mayor of Monroe, Ga. They were playing Johnny Cummings, Cracker outfielder, and Bob Nowell, well-known young businessman of Monroe.

Most of the Cracker baseball team was there to see their vice president play golf. Bunny Hearn, Johnny Chapman and even old Dr. Dlaty, the trainer, were off in the gallery that followed the match.

Mayor Pollock can probably be elected for mayor again on the platform containing just one plank—a tie with Bobby Jones on the first nine. The mayor and Bobby Jones each had a 39 for the out nine. Bobby came in with a 34 for a 73, while Mayor Pollock, no doubt thinking up his story for the benefit of Monroe golfers, slipped just a tiny bit and came in with a 41 for a very fine 80 on the No. 1 course. Nowell had a 40-40 for another splendid 80. Johnny Cummings surprised Bobby Jones with 43-38 and a good 81, showing that he is a good golfer as well as one of the best outfield prospects in the Southern association.

At any rate, that is how Bobby Jones spent the afternoon while the district qualifying rounds were on for the national open. He had a lot of fun, went in and shucked off his clothes and had his bath with no worry about what score the late finishers would have. There were no crinkles of worry in his brow, and no regrets. He left the boys something to shoot at which they never, never will hit.

THE PRESSURE OF THE OPEN.

Jones has a very significant article in the current American Golfer, edited by Grantland Rice, whose column you read in The Constitution each day. It is called "The Pressure of the Open" and explains more fully what he meant when he said he was tired of the crowds and the strain of competition and was quitting the competitive game. Wrote Jones:

"The 72-hole open championship test which the field will face at Fresh Meadow this month is regarded as about the toughest assignment in golf—some have even said that this championship, at least in certain stages, imposes as cruel a strain as is known in any sport. Golf is not the kind of sport or enterprise with which one would suspect that cruelty had any connection. Yet to the few who may be suffering through the last nine holes striving to finish before the strokes run out, the prospect of physical punishment would seem mild, indeed."

Jones discusses also the number of fine players who have all the shots and whose names appear in the early list of leaders. These usually fall out as the chase gets hotter and hotter. Only rarely does one come along who can stand the pace.

Jones further points out the pressure imposed on an inexperienced, and even some of the experienced players, by the sudden rushes of the gallery to watch the play. "The effect of big galleries on many players is also far from being a comforting thing. This is especially so when galleries rush to some player who has been going along in peace and quiet. The delays occasioned by large galleries are also inclined to get on many player's nerves unless they can force themselves to concentration, which is an extremely difficult thing. The effect of the crowd undoubtedly plays a prominent part in any open championship."

RED BARRON'S NIGHT.

Nashville finally accepted a challenge from the Crackers and will send their best runner at the Crackers' best tonight before the opening game. The Nashville entry is a mystery. Just so he isn't a masked marvel the Crackers will compete with him.

Rube Marquard, who has huge corns on his hands from much hitting to the outfield, will represent the club in the fungo contest. There will be a circling the bases contest also. The Crackers can lose this if they will just get men on during the game and then let them circle.

The ladies get in free. The peculiar thing is that they then decide to give them flowers. And yet they say its the woman who pays. Pays for what?

Players Arrested In Police Fight

NEW ORLEANS, June 6.—(P)—Increased over being arrested for speeding early today, Eddie Rose, left fielder of the New Orleans Pelicans, his wife and Danny Tappan, infielder of the Nashville baseball club, engaged in a free-for-all fight with the police and landed in the police station. They were released later on bond.

Police said the trouble started when Policemen Louis Friedoux and Gilbert Floyd stopped Rose's automobile as it was speeding down Canal street at 3 o'clock in the morning. When they reached the police station, the police said Mrs. Rose refused to get out of the automobile and kicked a policeman. Rose tore a policeman's uniform and finished off by tearing up a railing in the police station. Tappan, the police explained, took his feeling out on Policemen Eugene

Australian Women Expected June 22

LOS ANGELES, June 6.—(P)—An Olympic committee announced today that the first woman athletes to arrive here for the 1932 games will be four competitors from Australia. They are expected June 22.

Of the 2,000 athletes to participate in the games July 30 to August 14, approximately 250 are expected to be women. The nations expected to send female competitors include Denmark, France, Germany, England, Holland, Japan, Mexico, Lithuania, South Africa, Sweden, Canada, Poland and the United States.

Diaz by beating the policeman in the face. Joseph Brown, a visiting friend of the ball players, was arrested on charges of being drunk but the two other women in the party were released.

YOUTH LEADING IN BRITISH OPEN WITH 70 SCORE

American Stars Trail on First Day; 236 in Field.

By Frank H. King, Associated Press Staff Writer.
SANDWICH, England, June 6.—(P)—Toward the end of a cold blustery June day of workmanlike but unimpressive golf, A. R. L. Bradbury, youngest of seven English golfing brothers, shot a 70 over the St. George's course to lead an international field of 220 competitors today in the first qualifying round of the British open championship.

The slender Somerset pro finished two under par for a one-stroke lead over all rivals.

Arthur Havers, only native Briton who has been able to win the title in the past ten years, scored a 71 over the much longer and stiffer Prince's course, where half the field battled par and weather while the remainder toured St. George's. Over the easier layout, Archie Compston, the blond giant of the British links, tied Havers for second place with a machine-like 71.

SEVEN SCORE 72.
Seven professionals turned in cards of 72. Among eight who shot 73's were two of the three American professionals. The British fear most—Gene Sarazen, former United States open champion, and Mac Smith, medalist at Carnoustie last year. Both shot fine golf over the par 74 Prince's course while Tommy Armour, defending champion, played easily to get his 73 at St. George's, where par is 72.

Seven amateurs in the delegation of a dozen American golfers failed with only one exception to distinguish themselves. Robert Sweeney, an American student at Oxford, shot a fine 75 to keep himself up with the leaders, but his brother Frank, who scored 85.

Three other Americans living and playing their golf now in England failed to break 80: Paul Azbill, of Sunningdale, taking St. Douglas Grant, Royal St. George's, 80, and Stuart Scheffel, of Addington, 80.

WITHIN RANGE.
Ross Thomson, Uniontown, Pa., amateur, kept well within the qualifying range with an 80, but Joshua Crane, of Boston, who annually plays a round or two in the championships, practically shot himself out of the competition with an 89.

Walter Pursey, professional from Seattle, needed a troublesome 81 while Gordon Smith, Palm Beach pro, dropped himself close to Crane's class with an 88.

Among the British amateurs, Lister Hartley, Walker cup star, shot a neat 73 and John De Forest, amateur champion, had a capable 74.

Sarazen, on whose chances even Tommy Armour has wagered a few pounds, was particularly brilliant on the greens as he battled Prince's rugged layout in a steady rain. The stocky Italian from New York had five one-put greens. He went out in 37 strokes, one over par, but shot a 36, two under par, and amazing under the poor conditions, on the incoming nine.

Smith gave a large gallery an exhibition of smooth effortless golf, reversing Sarazen's nine-hole scores, and Armour, but for a losing duel with the wind on the seventh hole, might have shaded both. His iron play was masterful and his wood shots banged far and true, except for the seventh, when he fired clear over the green, and took a 6.

McBride Refuses Norfolk Position

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 6.—(P)—Horace McBride, slugging outfielder of the Harrisburg Senators, today said he would refuse to report to Norfolk, of the Eastern league, to which club he has been sold conditionally. McBride said that although going to a higher league, he was told his salary would be cut.

Norfolk officials today wired the Harrisburg club that unless McBride reported soon the deal was off.

Hendrick Is Sold Back to Reds

ST. LOUIS, June 6.—(P)—Harvey Hendrick, one of the two players traded by Cincinnati to the St. Louis Cardinals for outfielder Chick Hafey, has been sold back to the Cincinnati club. Sam Breadon, Cardinals' president, announced last night.

The deal brought to three the number of players sold by the Cardinals in the past two days. Flint Rhem, pitcher, and Eddie Delker, infielder, were sold yesterday to the Philadelphia Nationals. Hendrick's sale was announced as a strictly cash deal. The price was not given.

While with the Cardinals, Hendrick was used mostly at third base, filling in for the injured Sparky Adams.

CRACKERS OPEN NIGHT BASEBALL WITH NASHVILLE

Game Will Start at 8:30. Added Attractions Slated.

By Jimmy Jones.
Moonlight and roses—a romantic combination—will attend the opening of Atlanta's night baseball season tonight at Ponce de Leon park when the Crackers ally forth to play Joe Klugman's Nashville Volunteers at 8 o'clock.

Carnations and roses will be given to each lady who attends the game as guest of the Atlanta Baseball Amusement Company. These will be presented at the gate and what's more, there will be two $10 baskets of flowers and five season passes given to ladies who happen to hold the lucky number on their tickets.

Since it is the traditional contention of the fair sex that it is the woman who always pays, there will be no grounds for debate tonight. The women will pay for nothing.

ONLY A ROSE.
Chick Ross, who made a round of the florist shops yesterday, could not find quite enough carnations to fill the bill, so he will supplement the order with roses, which should suit the fanettes just as well.

For those who like things more exciting than flowers, there will be plenty of the manlier attractions.

Manager Red Barron, the old winged-halfback, will meet one of the Vols in a foot race—either around the bases or over the 100. A telegram in acceptance of Atlanta's challenge was received from Joe Klugman, Vol manager, last night, accompanied by a $1000 wager that Frank Pearce, big Vol pitcher, would beat Barron.

JOE'S JOKE.
No one has been able to figure whether Klugman is joking or endeavoring to arouse the ire of the Crackers.

There also will be a fungo hitting contest between Rube Marquard, Cracker coach who can larrup them a far piece, and Pat Simmons, Nashville pitcher.

The gates of the park will be opened at 7 o'clock, when the big flood lights will be switched on for a test. The Crackers will be in uniform at 7:30. Sounds like an invitation dance, this night ball. But there will be plenty to see it.

Officials of the Atlanta ball club expect a crowd of 9,000—the biggest since opening day—to attend the nocturnal festivities. There will be curious visitors from all over the state, eager for the outing and the chance to see the state's first night game.

As for Red Barron and his boys, they don't mind the going after dark. "It may sound boastful and exaggerated but we should have won eight of the first nine games," Barron declared. At that, the team got out of the cellar.

Climax Blenheim, the old warhorse, will be on the mound for the Crackers tonight. He pitched a great game in beating the Memphis Chicks last night. There is a good chance that Norman Kies, the new catcher from Newark, will be behind the bat. Elmer Oliphant, young first baseman from Newark, has a record of 100 hits in 100 games.

HENRI COCHET WINS SINGLES

Frenchman Takes Fifth Title as He Beats DeStefani.

AUTELURE, France, June 6.—(P)—Henri Cochet, of France, today won the French tennis singles title and kept for France a title no foreigner ever has won.

DeStefani, a left-hander, won his way through a brilliant field to the final, but he was no match for Cochet.

It was Cochet's fifth French singles title, a crown he, Rene Lacoste and Jean Borotra have kept among themselves since the French championships were thrown open to all comers in 1925. Cochet has won it four times in the past eight tournaments. Lacoste three times and Borotra once. Cochet's first victory was scored in 1922 when it was closed to Frenchmen.

Cochet shared with Mrs. Helen Wills Moody the distinction of having won two titles. He paired with Jacques Brugnon to win the doubles. Mrs. Moody and the singles and paired with Elizabeth Ryan to take the women's doubles.

The other title went to England. Fred Perry and Betty Nuthall defeated Mrs. Moody and Sidney B. Wood Jr. in the final of the mixed play.

Bugs Raymond Only Man To Outwit John McGraw

So Says Rube Marquard, in Intimate Sketch, of His Career Under Noted Manager.

By Jimmy Jones.
Rube Marquard, who pitched 19 years in the National league—most of them for John J. McGraw—sat down yesterday and regaled a small circle of listeners with some great stories of his retired ex-chief. The passing of McGraw from the helm of the Giants after 30 long, glorious years, affected Marquard as deeply as it did the other old Giants who fought, won and lost the battles with the Little Napoleon.

Much has been said of McGraw's fiery leadership. He was one of the last leaders of a flaming era of managers which included the late George Stallings of Georgia. Few men are able to speak more intimately of the Rube's experiences with him.

"In the first place, he was the hardest taskmaster I ever saw and at the same time the best-hearted man that I ever knew," declared the Rube.

McGraw has been criticized sometimes by his own players—his iron-handed tactics of running his team, but it must be considered that he had some tough men to handle and that McGraw came from a school where a manager was rough and ready.

BUGS WAS PRIZE.
"No big league manager ever had a more unruly or eccentric player to handle than Bugs Raymond, the pitcher, and while McGraw never succeeded in exerting a complete control over Bugs, he probably got more out of him than anyone else could have gotten out of such a fellow."

A great episode of McGraw's numerous trials with that wild genius that has not been brought into print was related by Marquard. It was during a game with Pittsburgh and Raymond was opposing Sam Leaver, the old schoolmaster who threw a curve on almost every pitch. As usual, Raymond took the mound under the influence of heavy stimulants.

Bugs actually staggered as he walked to and from the mound, said Marquard. He openly ridiculed Honus Wagner's hitting ability and struck him out three times while holding the Pirates to three hits and shutting them out, 2-0.

THE RAZZ.
"You old Dutchman, you can't hit. I'm going to strike you out," Raymond, who was a spit ball pitcher, would yell as he faced Wagner. At the end of the game McGraw snarled at him:

"Raymond, I've got a good notion to fine you a thousand dollars for being out of condition, but I want you to pitch again day after tomorrow."

That suited Bugs fine but he asked McGraw to be sure and remind him of it later so he could be in shape. It so happened that Raymond got knocked out of the box the next time he pitched and McGraw wanted to

Marquard defends McGraw for his policy of dictating to his pitchers. During the days when he had men like Mathewson, Marquard, McGinnity, Ames, Crandall and Tesaur, McGraw was more lenient about this but later when these men passed on and he had a lot of young pitchers, he became more insistent on signaling to the catchers what to

ATLANTA STARS FAIL IN ROUNDS OVER EAST LAKE

Howard Beckett Has Best Score Among Local Golfers, With 152.

By Roy White.
Two Alabama professionals, Dan Goss and Eddie Miller, of Gadsden, won first and second places in the qualifying rounds Monday on the No. 2 East Lake Country Club course for play in the national open championship, slated for June 23, 24 and 25 at Flushing, N. Y.

Goss set the pace with two great rounds of 69 and 71 for 140, with Miller second, two strokes back. Carlyle Hall, Birmingham, with 145, was third. Fairley Clark, of Savannah, won fourth place, while Doris Smith, Birmingham, and Tony Penna, Pensacola, Fla., finished in a tie for fifth place.

Goss and Miller, a former South-eastern P. G. A. champion, will represent this district in the national open. They paced one of the strongest fields of southern entries ever recorded.

BECKETT SCORES 153.
Howard Beckett, professional at the Capital City Country Club, set the pace for Atlanta's six entries and finished with a 152, with Ernie Ball, with 153, next, and Charlie Yates third with 157.

Both the Alabama pros played consistent golf and led the field from the beginning. Goss finished the morning round with a 69, two strokes under par, and equaled perfect figures on the afternoon round. Miller was in a tie with the veteran Gene McCarthy, Columbia, S. C., for second place with 72 as the afternoon round started, and another steady round of one over par won him second place.

Goss played par figures for six holes, went one over on the seventh, shot a birdie on the eighth and ended the first nine with a 35. He clipped two strokes off par on the back nine with birdies on the 11th and 16th holes.

In the afternoon Goss went two over par on the first nine but came back strong on the return and scored birdies on the 12th and 16th to win first place.

STEADY GOLF.
Miller's game was nothing spectacular. He played his own steady golf during both the morning and afternoon rounds and kept plugging away. He was rarely ever in trouble and made several great shots that gave him confidence.

Charlie Hall, another Birmingham pro, turned in two cards of 73 and 74 with Goss still out on the course. McCarthy was well up in the running after the morning round, but his game faltered during the afternoon.

Three eagles were made during the day. Arnold Meers, of Nashville, started off with an eagle on the first hole but failed to keep a steady pace and soon stroked himself out of the money. Fairley Clark, Savannah, scored an eagle on No. 3 the afternoon and Henry Picard, Charleston, had an eagle three on the par five 14th hole during the afternoon.

The first hole proved the easiest of the day as two eagles, 14 birdies and 17 pars were scored on its during the two rounds. The 18th proved the hardest, 45 birdies and 15 pars were made there.

The third, fourth, seventh, ninth, 13th and 17th holes also furnished plenty of trouble as only one birdie was recorded on each one with few pars scored.

Twenty players were scheduled to start on the 22nd, a Birmingham amateur and George Street, East Lake professional, withdrew, although Sargent played out the 36 holes. Charlie Yates, Birmingham, and Ernie Ball, East

Drennon To Become Head Coach at Rivers, Butts to G. M. C.

CHANGES BECOME EFFECTIVE SOON, IT IS LEARNED

Madison Coach Succeeds Hooks; Officials Confer Here.

Two important changes in coaching posts in Georgia's preparatory school athletic circles became definitely known yesterday when The Constitution learned that Raleigh Drennon, former Georgia Tech star guard, 1928, would become head football coach at Riverside Military Academy, and that Wallace Butts, who turned out outstanding teams at Madison A. M., would replace Bobby Hooks as coach at G. M. C. at Milledgeville.

Hooks, a former University of Georgia halfback, has taken over the job at Valdosta. Drennon, who was the assistant coach at Riverside last fall, succeeded Major Kennedy at the post. Drennon's elevation was no surprise and it has been understood for some time that he was to get the promotion. As for Butts, who was the leading man in the race for the G. M. C. job, he is a Milledgeville boy and starred at end at G. M. C. in his prep days. He later went to Mercer, where he continued to stand out as a player. He has been remarkably successful as coach at Madison, his team having won the Southern prep championship by beating Allen Military Academy of Texas in a post-season game at Columbus.

ROY FUSS WINS PRESS TOURNEY

Roy Fuss, of the Journal, won his third Atlanta newspaper golf championship and permanent possession of the Dan Micholite trophy when he defeated Mack Wooten, the medalist, 2 up, Monday afternoon on the Forest Hills course in the finals of the annual event.

L. R. Williams, a member of The Constitution's composition staff, defeated Guy Butler, Journal sports writer, 4-2, in the consolation match and flight.

The match was followed by more than 50 persons, and the spectators included Frank Ross, business manager; "Red" Barron, the manager; Bill Daley, the trainer, and practically all of the cracker-cake members of the Atlanta Golf Association.

Pollock equalled Bobby's first nine-hole score with a 38 on the front nine, and Cummings followed closely behind, but the master of golf clipped two strokes off par to set them up on the back nine.

Cummings, after a 43 on the front nine, ended with a 38 on the back side for an 81, which is good golf for the difficult No. 1 course.

Temporary leadership of the Women's Golf League, sponsored by the Atlanta Women's Golf Association, will be determined today on the No. 2 East Lake course when West End and East Lake, and the two teams feature matches. They are tied for the lead with three wins and losses.

Other matches in the fourth round slated for today are between Anselmy Park and the Municipal team and Druid Hills and Capital City.

Several women golfers from the Sweetwater club near Marietta, will be the guests of the Atlanta Women's Golf Association, and will participate in a one-day medal affair.

Mrs. H. R. Kirkpatrick, Ed. Lee's representative in the association; Miss Mary Warren, the tournament chairman; Mrs. W. D. Cook, the secretary-treasurer; and Ernie Hall and George Sargent, East Lake professionals, will be in charge of the tournament.

Alternates and other members of the various clubs are invited to participate in today's events as prizes will be given for the medal scores in addition to the team play.

A one-day medal play tournament for members of the Atlanta Junior League, will be staged today on the Capital City Country Club course. Play will start at 9 o'clock, and Mrs. John Knox and Mrs. Charles Black Jr., together with Howard Beckett and Willie Livingston, the club pros, will be in charge of the event.

Every member of the league is invited and urged to play today, and the players will be grouped into divisions for 18 and 9-hole play. Those who do not desire to play the 18 holes can compete for the 9-hole prize.

Atlanta Boy Leads Penn Golfers

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—(AP)—John W. Owen, junior, today was elected captain of the University of Pennsylvania's golf team for 1933. His home is in Atlanta.

Arthur M. Rybicki, Brooklyn, the retiring captain, will represent Pennsylvania in the intercollegiate golf championships at Hot Springs, Va., June 27 to July 2.

Ex-Tech Star Beats Ashburn, 2-0

AMERICA'S, Ga., June 6.—Emory Witt, former Tech hurler, pitched a two-hit shutout game here this afternoon to down Ashburn, Southwest Georgia league leader, by a score of 2-0. Witt was backed by errorless support and the formidable stick work of Harry Knorr and Sutton. Both teams went scoreless until the sixth inning when Sutton singled through the infield.

THE SPORTLIGHT

BEN EASTMAN, The Stanford Simonon. Fleet as the western winds are fleet Beneath a western sky, King in the land of flying fleet, The blond express sweeps by.

Time, you have lost your laurel now, Held through eternal suns; The olive fades upon your brow When Benny Eastman runs.

Let Mercury look down at last Before the world grows dark, To see the blond express go past And set another mark.

His spinning feet now span the world To face a record thrust, Where scowling time, his banner furled, Must take his western dust.

Time, you have lost your laurel now, Held through too many suns; The olive fades upon your brow When Benny Eastman runs.

The Olympic Sensation.

There will be more than one breaker of world's records in the coming Olympic games, but the main sensation is pretty sure to be a slender young blond by the name of Benny Eastman, the Stanford stamper.

Eastman has broken the 440 and the 880 record at least twice. He keeps one dizzy trying to follow his flying pace.

Eastman's quarter at 46.4 and his half mile at 1:50.9 in half a season are the most remarkable running performances in track history. If he runs both distances he will shatter, demolish and annihilate both the 400 and the 800-meter marks and leave a double target for the next decade of middle distance runners to tackle.

The main hope is that he doesn't strain a ligament or wrench a muscle in the burden such time must be placed upon a pair of legs, which are still cast in human mold.

delphia. Here were the Athletics training for the fourth pennant, after a home crowd. But after Gehrig had tied the old home record of four in one game, the crowd was pulling for a fifth.

When Gehrig hit one that came near clearing Al Simmons' dome, the roar of the crowd was in the nature of a salute. They were about to see a new record set up, until Al spoiled the show.

It would have been something to see a record smashed, which had stood for nearly 40 years—especially in these dizzy days when records are broken after an ax.

There will be at least five records cracked at Los Angeles in the most spectacular field and track offering the world has ever seen.

The British can claim at least half the glory, maybe more, if Tommy Armour or Mac Smith comes through at Sandwich. Both Armour and Smith are sons of the Bluebell and the thistle.

But that isn't the point. Great Britain has retained its golf golf only once in the last 100 years. The British are naturally keen to see some homecoming pro keep the cup under British skies. And they still have a chance.

There is no lack of attachment to Bill McKee's camp.

Crowds and Records.

One factor, which will help build up attendance at the Olympic games is the prospect of seeing new records made good on the early days, although a great kick out of watching a record cracked. It gives him something to talk about for the rest of his life.

The end of Lou Gehrig and his four home runs at Philadelphia.

Passing of Harry Ertle Revives Many Memories

By Jimmy Jones.

The death of Harry Ertle, noted fight referee, which was reported yesterday in an Associated Press dispatch, may not carry nationwide significance, but to Georgians it marks the passing of a man who figured in this state's most hectic prize fight history.

Harry Ertle was the man who refereed the Stribling-McGuire bout at Columbus, Ga., in 1923, in which Ertle reversed his decision two or three times and finally secretly boarded a northbound train while an angry crowd of fight fans milled about the streets.

Ertle at first hesitated about giving a decision, then indicated that he had decided to give the fight to Stribling. The referee, who was light-heavyweight champion, precipitating a wild, joyous celebration. Later he declared the bout a draw and skipped out En route north, he changed his mind again and ruled McGuire the winner.

The bout stands as a no-decision in the latest Everlast guide. Joe Jacobs, now manager of the association, had McGuire under his wing and he brought Ertle south with him to handle the bout. Jacobs and McGuire had quarreled. Stribling, then a youngster, and discovered their mistake too late. They went on with the fight, which ended in Ertle's medley of decisions.

Joe Jacobs will never forget that night and Georgians will never forget Harry Ertle, who later advanced to the position of New York state's fistie circles.

He entered the hospital three weeks ago when he suffered a relapse after having apparently improved his condition during a long rest in Florida. He suffered a chronic kidney ailment and underwent an operation in 1931, following which he went south, where he spent several months recuperating.

Knight Gives Oster Real Beating

BOSTON, June 6.—(AP)—Joe Knight, Col. of the light-heavyweight, gave Wild Willie Oster, of Chicago, a terrific 10-round beating tonight in the Arzone A. A. feature bout at the Arzone. Knight weighed 175 and Oster 167.

Oster landed but one real blow in the entire battle. One of his wild hooks caught Knight on the jaw and dropped him to his knees. Knight came up fighting and punished Oster severely during the remainder of the round.

Knight hit his opponent at will in every session.

Black Crackers Beat Lookouts

The Atlanta Black Crackers captured the first of a two-game series with the Chattanooga Black Lookouts yesterday afternoon at Ponce de Leon park. The score was 10 to 6.

Bradley pitched for the Crackers and Green caught. Simpson and Wadlow constituted the Lookout battery.

The final game of the series will be played this afternoon at Morehouse College.

Shades Valley Club To Offer Real Test

BATTLE FOR SOUTHERN AMATEUR TITLE TO TAKE PLACE ON TWO DIFFICULT LAYOUTS.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 6.—(AP)—The battle for southern golf's prized possession—the amateur title—beginning June 14, will be fought on the east and west courses of the Shades Valley Club, a pair of layouts capable of testing the mettle of Dixie's finest.

The 1932 tournament will be Birmingham's third since the championships started in 1902, but the setting will afford little to remind old-timers of Bobby Jones' initial major victory in the event of Roebuck in 1917 and the title winning play of his fellow Atlantan, Perry Adair, in 1923.

Nestling in Shades Valley across the mountain from Roebuck, the 36-hole battleground is one of the most picturesque in the south and the needs of high and lower scores, the duffer and the expert, were in mind when the courses were built by Donald Ross seven years ago.

In direct contrast to the east 18, the west coast rolls sharply through virgin timberland for most of its 6,000 yards, and the 106 bunkers which appear in profusion beautifully as well as make the target extremely pleasing and fair. It is truly an inland course.

Accurate driving, for that matter, perfect performance with tee shots, must be turned in to keep out of serious trouble, and it is over the west course route most of those who fall by the wayside are destined to meet their Waterloo. To add to the difficulties, the brooks and two lakes must be negotiated a total of 11 times.

Qualifying will be over both courses, but it is expected the west 18 will draw the championship fights.

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—(AP)—Brooklyn's Phil Phillies today donned their clouting clothes and patted a 15-to-7 defeat on the Brooklyn Dodgers in the only game played in either major league.

Joe Shaut, Babe Phelps and Lefty Heinech all felt the wrath of the Phillies bats, which mowed out 21 hits, including Chuck Klein's 14th home run, and piled up 14 runs in the first five frames.

Phil Collins, meantime, had the visitors baffled until the sixth inning, when the first of Hack Wilson's two home runs brought in a pair. The next inning saw the Dodgers score five more runs as Wright, O'Doul and Wilson hit for the circuit, and also saw the last of Collins' Ray Egan, hurled scoreless last time there on.

Hack Wilson's two four-baggers were his 10th and 11th of the season. Don Hurst, big first baseman, led the Phillies' assault with four singles and a walk in five trips and scored three runs.

"I'm a Walking Example of The Power of Thor's Vitamin!" Says Bennett

"I am a walking example of what this new vitamins, copper and iron treatment, Thor's Vitamin Compound, can do, and I can't think of anything that will do more good than telling a lot of suffering people about this wonderful medicine," declared Mr. W. L. Bennett, prominent Confederate veteran, who resides at 351 Hemphill avenue.

"When I say 'walking example,' it's literally true, for when I began taking the new treatment I was so weak from stomach trouble and toxic poisons I could hardly walk a block. Now my stomach feels as fine as it did when I was a young fellow and I have gained so much strength and energy I walk anywhere I want to go, often for miles, without being tired out. Another thing, I used to have to take strong purgatives every night, and even then my system seemed to stay full of poisons, but this new treatment corrected this trouble along with the others, and every person my age will appreciate what that means. I used to think I was just worn out all over and nothing would help me, but Thor's Vitamin Compound seemed to make me over like a new man from head to foot.

"About a month ago I told about this new treatment had fixed me up and a lot of people have asked me about it since then. I wish I could tell every suffering man and woman in Atlanta what it will do. These scientists are smart men and 'in glad for myself and others that they have at last found a treatment that will do what a man wants it to. It's a wonderful medicine."

Florida's presidential preference and nominating democratic candidates for congress, state office and downward to constable.

Presidential preference will be decided among Franklin D. Roosevelt, William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray and L. J. Chassee, Milwaukee, Wis. Roosevelt is conceded an overwhelming endorsement.

The prohibition question comes up only in the four congressional contests, with the entire country watching the race in the fourth district between Representative Ruth Bryan Owen, daughter of William Jennings Bryan, and Mark Wilcox, West Palm Beach, city attorney, whose chief campaign plank has been repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Mrs. Owen has promised to vote for a referendum if she is returned to congress. Representative Tom Yon, third district, sticking to his declaration against a referendum, is faced by Millard Caldwell, Milton, and R. G. Patterson, Pensacola, both referendum advocates.

In the race for congressman at large, Asher Frank, Tampa, and Lester Jennings, Jacksonville, favor repeal. John T. Alston Jr., Jacksonville's mayor; W. J. Sears, former fourth district congressman, seek referendum, while W. D. Bell, Arcadia, campaign for strict retention and enforcement of all dry laws. Representative Herbert J. Drane, first district, is opposed by J. Hardin Peterson, Lakeland, and Sumner L. Lowry Sr., Tampa. All declared for referendum. Drane has voted dry consistently in congress.

JUNIOR LEAGUE JOTTINGS

BY MRS. HENRY W. GRADY JR.

Celebrating the close of the Junior League year, Junior League members meet today for a luncheon at Brookhaven Country Club, when officers for 1932-33 will be installed, an account of the conference of the association of Junior League of America will be given.

By the returning delegates, Mrs. Allison Thompson, president-elect, and Mrs. Green Warren, and final reports from the various committees will be heard.

What has the year 1931-32 meant to the Atlanta Junior League? That is the question that will be answered as these reports are made. Especially anxious are we to hear from our treasurer, Mrs. J. C. Harris Jr., who begins today her third term in office. As she reads her record of figures, a story will unfold disclosing what has been accomplished financially by the League during the past year.

To the Junior League ward in the Henrietta Eggleston Memorial hospital, the Junior League pledges $6,000 annually and members give many hours of regular work there, both in the hospital and with the activities of the Henrietta Eggleston Memorial Hospital Auxiliary. Besides this, the Junior League has been successful in raising money to help the Community Chest and $500 to the emergency relief fund, also furnished members to solicit pledges and to place in a Red Cross tableau in J. P. Allen's store window to further aid the war effort.

The actual operating expenses of the Junior League dues. From this fund the Junior League covers its small operating expenses, and covers any small deficit given by the League in honor of new members, out-of-town visitors, and other such things. This is arranged in order that all our funds raised specifically for charity may go directly to charity.

As the year 1931-32 ends and we enter for a time a period of summer quiet, let us look back and analyze the trend of Junior League affairs. What has the year 1931-32 meant to our organization? Above all, it has given us a true perspective of our place among the recognized institutions. More and more is the Junior League becoming a training school for volunteers who, we hope, will graduate out into the wider scope of civic undertakings. Our members who are already working in other welfare organizations beside the League are enthusiastic over the possibilities of volunteers in all charitable institutions. Their usefulness was pointed out by Miss Woolford during the Institute for Volunteer Social Workers. We are appalled by our lack of knowledge of city resources and realize the need of a more intensive study before we may take our place as a group of right-thinking citizens. However, we should feel that an important step has been taken when the aligned organizations of the city have been brought into contact with the accredited charitable agencies, for from this alliance much strength and experience will come so that in future years the Junior League may be looked to, in spite of the youthful personnel, as a dependable and successful organization.

COLLEGE GIRLS wash

175 dainty garments with one box of LUX

(Below) Miss Gretchen Wilson and Miss Tyler admiring a dainty chemise washed with Lux. Miss Wilson says: "Lux keeps stockings and lingerie new looking such a long time. And my, it's quick. You can do a whole bunch of silk things in no time at all!"

TEN young college girls at the famous Allerton House in New York City recently counted the number of garments one box of Lux washed.

Their list totaled 175! More than 14 dozen—think of it! You've known Lux flakes were the safest, finest soap ever made, but did you realize how economical these marvelous tissue-thin diamonds are? Lux not only keeps nice things colorful and lovely as new—but it goes so far—does so much. Just look over the list one box washed:

- | | |
|-----------------------|-----------------------|
| 35 pairs of stockings | 60 handkerchiefs |
| 10 brassieres | 11 pairs gloves |
| 10 slips | 2 face cloths |
| 9 bloomers | 1 silk kimono |
| 8 chemises | 1 sweater |
| 7 pajamas | 1 smock |
| 6 step-ins | 1 blouse |
| 4 vests | 1 collar and cuff set |
| 4 nightgowns | 1 hat |
| 2 singlettes | 1 girdle |

For economy's sake, avoid ordinary soaps—cakes, powders, chips. They often contain harmful alkali which weakens fabrics and fades colors. Lux has no harmful alkali. Anything safe in water is safe in Lux.

ECONOMICAL
for dyes, too! The big package of Lux does 6 weeks' dishes... keeps hands lovely.

Culbertson on Contract The Approach-Forcing System in England.

BY ELY CULBERTSON, World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

The Englishman is a true born conservative. The established order of things appeals to him as being eminently correct, and generally change, when it comes in England, makes such a gradual approach that the Englishman himself is unaware of it.

Something less than two years ago, I and three other Americans went to London to play a Contract Bridge match, demonstrating American theories of bidding, against English players, some of whom denounced American theories, declaring that "common sense" would prove the undoing of any system, however carefully worked out or however brilliantly presented. The result of that match is history. America won, and with this victory there started the gradual conversion of English Bridge players to the Approach-Forcing System of bidding.

Recently, in London, there was played a team-of-four match between a team representing Crookford's Club and four Viennese players. The Viennese players used no system. They proclaimed that systems were unnecessary when the men behind the cards were experts. The members of the English team were Lady Rhodes, Dr. Nelson Wood-Hill, Captain Jack Dalton and Mrs. Phyllis Bosworth. They used the Approach-Forcing System.

The hand below proved the undoing of the Viennese team, and conclusively demonstrated that system is essential, then for experts, East-Dealer.

The bidding in Room No. 1, where Lady Rhodes and Dr. Wood-Hill were East and West, was:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South West North East
3♠ (1) 4♦ (2) Pass 5♥ (3)
Pass 6♥ Pass 7♥
Pass Pass Pass

1—A weak endeavor to interrupt the adversary's line of communication.
2—A basic principle of the Approach-Forcing System of bidding, showing control of the opponents' bid suit, and, under the circumstances, a distinct Slam try.
3—A dangerous deviation from the system, but Lady Rhodes was endeavoring to show the extreme strength of her hand.

In Room No. 2, Mrs. Bosworth sat South and Captain Dalton, North. The bidding in that room was:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South West North East
5♦ (1) 5♥ (2) Pass 6♥
7♦ (3) Dbl. (4) Pass Pass (5)
Pass Pass Pass

1—Possibly a strategic Double would be as effective here, but the bid of five diamonds has much in its favor.
2—The Viennese players were "too expert" to have a bid fitted to this situation. All that West felt he could do, therefore, was to overcall with five hearts.
3—Mrs. Bosworth remarks that when she made this bid, she really felt that she should let well enough alone. However, after weighing all the evidence carefully, she decided that if West could not bid six hearts over five diamonds, perhaps he could not go to seven hearts at this time. She, therefore, took a plunge and bid seven diamonds.
4—West's Double was a distinct relief.
5—East explained afterwards that he could not go to seven hearts with only five diamonds in his hand. The result, as is plainly evident, is a lay-down Grand Slam for the East and West players in Room No. 1.

This result was realized by those using an accurate system of bidding. The players who relied upon system, but upon so-called "common sense," failed to realize the full possibilities of their holdings. Played at seven diamonds doubled, Mrs. Bosworth lost 4 tricks for a penalty of 600 points, which was in part offset by the honor count in the trump suit.

Whether in crossing a street, in running a household, in conducting a business or in the recreation of a free hour, everyone needs a system. As a matter of fact, everyone unconsciously uses a system. Whether the system is a good one or a bad one frequently measures the gap between success and failure.

TODAY'S POINTER.
System is the secret of success in all fields of life. A system is a plan and is essential even in the smallest things. In Bridge, systematic players win in the long run against those who rely upon "common sense," but who actually make a system of being unsystematic.

TOMORROW'S HAND.
The hand and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow.

EX-GOVERNOR HEADS CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS

Directors Ask Loyalty to Teaching of Mary Baker Eddy.

BOSTON, June 6.—(AP)—Ralph O. Brewster, former governor of Maine, today became president of the Mother Church, First Church of Christ Scientist, at the annual meeting today, which 6,000 persons attended.

Brewster, who became a member of the First Church in Boston in 1919 and has served the First Church at Portland, Maine, as first reader, is a member of the Christian Science Society of Dexter, Maine, which he helped to organize.

In taking office the former governor said, "to the extent that disciples of Christian Science shall exemplify its teaching for suffering humanity, hungry after the things that shall really satisfy, to that extent the world will be restored to the path from which it has wandered."

Robert E. Ruffum, of this city, the retiring president, sounded an appeal for support of "righteous government" as a means of combating effectively lawlessness and crime.

A message from the board of directors reported manifestations of a more pronounced sense of unity among the church membership and loyalty to the teachings of Mary Baker Eddy, founder of Christian Science.

Officers elected in addition to Brewster were: Clerk, Ezra W. Palmer, Brookline; first reader, Gordon V. Comer, Denver, Col.; second reader, Miss Lucia C. Coulson, London, England.

NINE-STORY PLUNGE ENDS WRITER'S LIFE

MIAMI, Fla., June 6.—(AP)—Henry C. Fisher, a writer of a number of internationally known works, fell to his death from a ninth-floor window of the Colonial Towers hotel today.

He left several notes stating his act was suicide and asking that he be buried in a pauper's grave "without any pomp or circumstance."

Fisher, in failing health for several years, left notes to the coroner, to friends on local newspapers and wrote his own obituary notice.

The note to the coroner said: "Sir: No one to blame but the undersigned. Plain suicide. Reasons outlined in the enclosed."

"Please, please. No rites or other pomp."

The aged man, in a note to Hal Leshon, managing editor of the Miami Daily News, stated that the editor might want the enclosed "obituary" to give rest to his story. "I am on the ninth story of this hotel, equally built for such purposes as mine."

"Wonder what I'll think while falling nine stories. No, I am not dull. I am the child of Hoover."

A vivid apostrophe of realism, Fisher's writings in past days exposed the follies of European kings and princes. Two of his best-known books were "Private Lives of the Kaiser and His Consort" and "Secret History of the Court of Berlin." Both books were published before the World War and later printed in many languages. They told of alleged intrigues of the Kaiser and 21 other German kings and princes.

As a foreign newspaper correspondent, Fisher was stationed at many courts. He was born in Alsace-Lorraine.

Police learned that James Maye, negro elevator man, saw Fisher as he attempted to plunge to his death and tried to restrain him, but was beaten off by the frail old man.

LINDBERGH THANKS POLICE FOR EFFORTS

NEW YORK, June 6.—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh paid a personal visit to Police Commissioner Mulrooney today at the latter's office to thank him and the other men of the force who aided in the operation in investigation of the kidnapping and murder of his 21-month-old son.

The commissioner said that after the thanks had been accepted Colonel Lindbergh remained for several minutes to chat about other matters.

Colonel Lindbergh also resumed his work as technical director of Transcontinental & Western Airways, whose office he had not visited since the kidnapping March 1.

Associates said he showed clearly the "three months' ordeal since the child was taken."

ALABAMA WILL STAY NEGROES' EXECUTION

MONTGOMERY, Ala., June 6.—(AP)—The Alabama supreme court announced today that it would grant a stay of execution for the seven negroes condemned to die June 24 for assaults on two young white women near Scottsboro, Ala., within the next few days.

The announcement was made following receipt of an order from the United States supreme court stating that a writ of certiorari had been granted in connection with the appeal of the negroes and arguments set for October 10.

The second movement of Brahms' Third Symphony, which is being presented in serial form throughout the week, will be the featured offering of the concert to be broadcast by the Columbia Symphony orchestra, conducted by Howard Barlow, tonight from 8:30 to 9 o'clock over the WABC-Columbia network. This will be preceded by the opening selection, a modern "Scherzo" study by Mousorgsky.

MINISTERS UPHOLD STAND ON POLICIES

Evangelical Group's Resolution Indorses Action of Presbyterian Pastors.
Unanimous indorsement of the contention of members of the Atlanta Presbyterian Ministers' Association that they have a right to participate in politics was voted Monday at the meeting of the Evangelical Ministers' Association of Atlanta. The resolution unanimously adopted a resolution of ap-robation. The resolution voted from another, said to have been adopted by the general assembly of the Presbyterian church before its adjournment last week at Montreat, N. C., bearing on the same question.

Evangelical Group's Resolution Indorses Action of Presbyterian Pastors.

Resolved: That we indorse most heartily the unanimous action taken last Monday morning by the Atlanta Presbyterian Ministers' Association concerning the right and duty of the church to act in all matters of moral import, even when political parties invade the field. We agree fully with the declaration that "gambling, slavery, marriage, prohibition, war and other topics may interest politicians, but they are not, therefore, excluded from our thought as Christians."

Resolved further: That we learn with pleasure of the position of the Presbyterian general assembly, which has just closed its session at Montreat, N. C., and of the fact that it has adopted a resolution which we quote: "The general assembly of the Presbyterian church, United States, while conforming to its time-honored belief in the complete separation of church and state, feels that an expression of its views on great moral questions is both opportune and imperative. A large proportion of the press is giving daily publicity to propaganda, unreliable and unproved data, and only scant notice to favorable news or resolutions. From many of the industrial leaders and Christian and educational organizations. Some papers continually glorify the drinking of alcoholic beverages, forgetting that even the use of light wines and beer has generally been the cause of the drink habit; maintaining that no means for controlling the distribution and use of alcohol has thus far been devised, nor do they offer anything better or more effective. These journals circulate in countless homes and do untold damage to the minds of boys and girls in their formative years. . . . The general assembly places itself on record as favoring educational programs, a revival of civic interest and civic righteousness; the observance and enforcement of laws, and earnest support to governmental officers, imploring the Most High always to help us, as citizens of this great country, to be examples of righteousness, and to cherish more fully our birthright to a country whose God is the Lord."

MRS. C. MILO DAVIS, 84, IS CLAIMED BY DEATH
Mrs. C. Milo Davis, 84 years old, died Monday night at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. A. B. Sherwood, of 1642 Pelham road, N. E. She had been ill for some time. Mrs. Davis and her husband, who is 92 years old, had only recently moved to Atlanta from Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and she was taken ill after reaching this city. The body will be taken to the city morgue for funeral services and interment.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

whose conduct was impeccable but whose hearts were not involved in the relationship.
Have you ever come cold and shivering into a vapor heated house on a bitter cold day? If so you have experienced the delicious sensation of having your whole body permeated with a comforting warmth. You couldn't see the source of the heat. You couldn't hear the sound of it, but it didn't matter to you of what the fire was made, or where it was burning, so long as you felt its vaporous and alluring warmth.

Perhaps you have had another sort of experience on a cold winter day when chilled and miserable you entered a house to warm yourself.
A big fire roared on the hearth. The color of it was bright and beautiful. The sound of it was eager and cheerful. But in spite of all its beauty and suggestion of heat you had to turn yourself around slowly like a rooster on a spit, looking first one side and then the other, in a futile attempt to warm all sides uniformly and simultaneously. It couldn't be done. You could never feel the warmth penetrating to the very marrow of your bones. If you have had these two experiences you know exactly what a difference there may be between friendliness. Some have all the outward appearances of being satisfactory but they lack the one thing that would render them satisfactory, heart-iness.

Don't you see friendship can be made narrow or wide? It can be made shallow or deep. One can set any limit to it, or one need set no limit to it.
But always remember after you have set the limit for your friendships your friends will never presume to go beyond those limits.

COOPER, AYLESWORTH HONORED BY DRAKE
DES MOINES, Iowa, June 6.—(AP)—Kent Cooper, general manager of the Associated Press, and Merin H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Company, received honorary doctor of laws degrees today from Drake University.

AYLESWORTH, SON OF BARTON O. AYLESWORTH, president of the university from 1880 to 1897, delivered the commencement address to the 225 graduates.

NEW YORK, June 6.—(AP)—Clicking typewriters, grinding on Samuel Seabury's case against Mayor Walker, halted momentarily today as the Hofstadter committee's counsel clarified for the benefit of Governor Roosevelt his past activities.

Seabury's efforts to obtain gubernatorial action against Mayor Walker were not without success. The mayor received support from the New York committee of 1,000, which in a brief statement, said:

"The conference of lawyers called by the New York committee of 1,000, the Citizens' Union, and the Society for the Prevention of Crime, are unanimous in feeling that there are ample grounds for asking for the immediate removal of Mayor Walker by the governor."

The committee, said, he never did refuse to take action in the case of Sheriff Thomas M. Farley, whom the governor removed months ago, because he refused to explain salacious, vulgarly bank deposits during his term of office.

Furthermore, Seabury added, he never disclosed the matter with the committee before sending the Farley evidence to the governor.

He took the action in that case, Seabury said, just as he planned to take action in the Walker case, by sending the governor the evidence he had gathered together with a letter raising the question of whether, in the Walker case, evidence, Mayor Walker was fit to continue at the head of New York city's government.

The letter in the Farley case, Seabury explained, was written in his capacity as a private citizen. He would follow the same course in the Walker situation.

He plunged into the task of preparing the Walker evidence immediately after his return from Washington, Pa., where he delivered the commencement address at the University of Pennsylvania and Jefferson College, for Seabury said, he regarded Governor Roosevelt's statement calling for immediate action against Mayor Walker as a matter of public duty.

The governor on Friday, in his statement demanding action in the Walker case, said there was no time for political sniping." He added verbally that he wished Seabury would "stop talking and do something."

At the same time, Seabury took occasion to comment on a charge Senator John A. Hastings, Brooklyn democrat, who has been a member at numerous public hearings of the committee, made to the district attorney asserting Seabury violated the constitution in a trip he took recently to Bermuda.

Hastings said Seabury traveled to Bermuda and back in accommodations which ordinarily would cost $1,010 but for which he paid only $490. That, said Hastings, was contrary to the section of the constitution forbidding public officials from accepting free transportation or preferential rates.

He said Seabury was not a public official and for that reason could not have violated the constitution as charged by Hastings.

Furthermore, he explained, his baggage was moved into the expensive suite aboard the liner Monarch of Bermuda while he was on deck and without his knowledge. An officer told him, Seabury added, that the ship was not crowded and the larger cabin unoccupied, he might as well use it.

WOMAN IS SOUGHT TO MAKE ADDRESS AT WET MEETING
Mrs. William T. Healey, state chairman of the Woman's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, announced Monday that she was making an effort to obtain a noted woman speaker to appear at the city-wide wet rally Friday night at the municipal auditorium, where Clarence Darrow and Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, are to speak.

Mrs. Healey said she had communicated with Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, national chairman of her organization in an effort to get a woman speaker, preferring Mrs. Rylier, of St. Louis, who is known for her opposition to the dry law and for her work in connection with the labor movement. She is a member of the Woman's organization and the A. F. of L. sponsors of the meeting here Friday night.

"We hope to have a large percentage of women at our meeting Friday night and I feel that it would be much more effective if we also have a woman speaker," Mrs. Healey said.

I will not be one of those who are made by one other than myself.

CANDIDATES SET FOR BIG CAMPAIGN

Ammunition Being Collected, Political Situation Soon To Get Hot.
BY R. E. POWELL.
An interview still hunting, mixed with caustic speeches will pass before Georgia's political campaign gets hot.
After three opening speeches by as many candidates for governor, made in south Georgia cities Saturday, the candidates Monday were watching each other's peregrinations and accumulating ammunition for the big drive that ends August 24.

Fifty-seven candidates are out for 18 offices. Ten of them are seeking the governorship. Four of the ten, Eugene Talmdage, H. B. Edwards, Arlie D. Tucker and John I. Kelley, have made opening speeches.
At McRae, his home town, Talmdage will unleash the big battle of his artillery on July 4. Other candidates are expected to make various speeches between now and that time. All will be at Columbus on June 22 for a highway meeting.

Speaker Tucker passed through Atlanta Monday on one of the "still hunt" trips. He had, he said, stocked his motor larder with a side of meat and a sack of potatoes and expected to run a "depression" campaign.

Ex-Senator McLean Dies in Connecticut
Simsbury, Conn., June 6.—(AP)—George P. McLean, former governor of the United States, died suddenly today at his estate where he had been a frequent visitor. He was 74 years old.

Mr. McLean retired in 1920, after 18 years in the senate, at the time of his third term as governor. He was one of the president's advisers.

During Mr. Coolidge's occupancy of the White House, Mr. McLean was one of the president's advisers.
